Bloomsbury

"Authors from our African Studies and International Development lists, Odilile Ayodele, James B. Stewart, Kofi Anani and Aliou Ly, share their perspectives on open access (OA) in the Global South, discussing the value of OA for their research, the barriers they've faced and developments they hope to see in future."

Visit the Bloomsbury website to learn more

Rebecca Bennett reflects on how one accessible book changed the course of her entire career, and how the values of open research have been at the core of her work ever since.

Rebecca's book, The Welfare of Future Children, is the 500th title to be published open access by Bloomsbury, and was funded by The University of Manchester.

Revision #10
Created 2025-04-25 06:40:26 UTC by Jordy
Updated 2025-05-30 15:22:42 UTC by Anna Hughes