‘How Open Investing Will Transform Library Collections’ Demmy Verbeke & Curtis Brundy, Katina Magazine

This article, published in Katina Magazine in late 2024, provides a comprehensive overview of current library perspectives on, and turning points in, library investment in open access and open infrastructure. It provides a brief history of this investment, an overview of the frameworks (both structural and values-related) that libraries can use to evaluate investment opportunities, and also rationales on how budgets can be used to support open.
